

Opposition Not Making Precise Predictions

OTTAWA (CP)—"We're at the crossroads"—"we're entering a brand new era"—"we're in a state of transition"—its impossible to predict."

As opposition members of Parliament trudge back to Ottawa for the session resuming Tuesday, they are obviously not making any precise prediction of what the next few months might hold in store.

With an entirely new set of rules to guide the House, and with Prime Minister Trudeau still on a sort of parliamentary test run, no opposition members are sure how the tone, tempo and time of the House will progress.

"It's going to be a state of transition," says Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West), a former cabinet minister and one-time Speaker of the Commons. "It will take a couple of sessions to see how the new rules are working out and to assess all the changes."

As Parliament prepares to reassemble with its customary backlog of legislation, there are no immediate bills on the horizon that might cause a party confrontation of crisis proportions.

The Conservatives have made it plain they will fight furiously against proposed changes to the Estate Tax Act—which they claim will force many private farms from the hands of succeeding generations—and they will also raise their voices against the new social development income taxes.

VOTES SETTLE ISSUES

But as one party member said: "The government has a clear majority and after we've had our say, regardless of how loud it is, the measures must come to a vote."

What most MPs agree on is the fact that, under the new parliamentary rules, much of the action is going to shift from the Commons floor into committees.

With committees getting far greater responsibilities under the rules changes, most legislation and all estimates will be dumped in their laps for consideration after a brief push through the Commons.

As a result, much of the political fireworks could be transferred to the small committee rooms that are speckled around Parliament Hill.

"It's going to be tough on you fellows in the press," said one MP. "Instead of getting all the action in one chamber, you now are going to have to spread yourselves over half a dozen committee rooms."

When the Commons rose Dec. 20 for the Christmas recess, Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin said he looked forward to resuming the session "with more harmony and goodwill than we've had for years." The controversial rules changes, with a bit of give and take, appeared to have been made to everyone's benefit.

But a few days later Mr. Trudeau suggested that perhaps the opposition walked into a trap in focusing their fight on one controversial rule change, while allowing all the others to get pushed through.

SPOILS THE MOOD

Mr. Baldwin said the prime minister's "silly statement" could have an adverse effect on the mood of the House, but "we'll have to wait and see."

"It depends on the government now. We've shown goodwill and if they show an equal amount of goodwill, I look forward to a very productive Parliament."

Without any immediate crises on the horizon, this wait-and-see attitude seems to permeate all parties—and it represents a marked change from many previous sessions when the political gladiators often had their gloves on before getting in sight of the Peace Tower.

Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey) says he thinks this resumed session is going to be "pretty tangible."

"There has been a lot of ground work cleared up with the rules changes, and I think the government is going to be pretty anxious to get things moving in Parliament."

He predicted that the first few weeks would indicate the tone of the session.

While all spokesmen refer to the omnibus bill on Criminal Code amendments—covering such wide areas as gun-control, abortions, gambling and homosexuals—as an object for prolonged debate, the arguments are unlikely to follow party lines.

"No one seems to be itching for a fight," said one MP, "but that doesn't mean there won't be one. None of the best parliamentary fights have ever been predicted in advance."

Policy Meetings Open In London

LONDON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp today opened a two-day review of Canadian policy towards Europe, including the Soviet Union and East European Communist states.

Sharp held the discussions with 21 Canadian ambassadors and other heads of missions who were brought to London from their posts, especially for the meeting.

All turned up except Jean Morin, ambassador to Portugal, who became ill in Lisbon during the weekend.

The ambassadors met with Prime Minister Trudeau at a Sunday night reception at the home of High Commissioner Charles Ritchie. An official said that at the moment there are no other plans for a meeting between the ambassadors and Trudeau.

Trudeau is particularly concerned about Canada's relations with France. While he is enjoying his stay in London, the Canadian leader particularly years for an invitation to Paris to confer with President de Gaulle.

Trudeau expressed to a reporter during the weekend his regret that such an invitation hasn't come forward.

Paris has studiously avoided making approaches to Trudeau. Some correspondents had made efforts to have the French ambassador in London, Geoffrey de Courcel, join other ambassadors at the press luncheon for Trudeau held here last Thursday. The correspondents were advised the ambassador would be unable to attend.

Another aspect of Canada's relations with France concerns the efforts of French-speaking regions under de Gaulle's influence which have been seeking to give Quebec special diplomatic recognition at international conferences.

One such conference of French-speaking education ministers opened today in Kinshasa, The Congo.

3,000 WATCH SNOWMOBILES RACE

Walking was almost as dangerous as driving Sunday at the Okanagan Snowmobile Championships outside of Kelowna. With more than 80 snowmobiles and 3,000 spectators, a person was just as likely to trip over a snowmobile as get run over by one. During the actual racing there were several spectacular spills but everyone managed to stay healthy, no easy trick considering the machines travel in excess of 80 mph. —(Courier Photo)

Stewardess Foils Attempt To Hijack U.S. Jet Airliner

MIAMI (AP) — An attempted hijacking of a Delta Airlines jet en route to Miami from Detroit was foiled early today when a stewardess disregarded a passenger's shotgun and slammed the cabin door in his face, police said.

The attempt came hours after the victims of two weekend hijackings had returned from Cuba.

The Dade County sheriff's department said local and federal officers arrested Kenneth Earl McPeck, 31, of Orchard Lake, Mich., when the plane landed at Miami International Airport. His three-year-old son was taken into protective custody.

Officers said they went to the airport after the plane's captain radioed the Miami airport that he had a man aboard with a shotgun.

The sheriff's department said McPeck told them he carried the shotgun aboard the plane in a duffel bag. The weapon was found under his seat, unasmbed and again in the bag, the officers said.

Stewardess Lynne Sargeant of Miami Springs, Fla., told authorities she was accosted by a passenger who placed a shotgun in the pit of her stomach. The passenger told her to tell the captain he was going to Havana.

Instead, police said, Miss Sargeant slammed the door of the cockpit and locked it. The would-be hijacker apparently gave up the idea of a forced flight to Havana at that point, officers said.

Three times Sunday, airplanes swooped into Miami with victims of Saturday's two airline hijackings. The returning planes carried a band of laughing students, people beary-eyed from loss of sleep and an airliner crew whose captor insisted on a radio message to "tell Fidel Red is coming."

Passenger Ship Grounded But It Is Not In Danger

MIAMI (AP) — The Cunard liner Carmania, which got permission to sail from Florida only after modifications to meet United States safety standards, has run aground on San Salvador Island in the Bahamas with 471 passengers and 450 crew members aboard.

The 22,600-ton British vessel got stuck on Gardner Reef at 10:40 a.m. Sunday, just 18 hours after leaving Port Everglades on a scheduled 12-day Caribbean cruise to Kingston, Jamaica.

Quebec followed with seven deaths, five on the highways, one in a fire and one suffocated.

Nova Scotia had one fatality in a fire, while the other Atlantic provinces and the four western provinces remained fatality-free.

The survey does not include industrial deaths, known suicides or slayings.

B.C. Man Awaiting Transplant Dies; Doctor Surprised

COURTENAY, B.C. (CP) — The death of prospective heart transplant patient Gerry Johnson in a Houston, Tex., hospital Friday came as a surprise to his own physician, who said Sunday his patient was "in as good a condition as could be expected."

Mr. Johnson, 43, a logger from nearby Royston, on Vancouver Island, died at St. Luke's Hospital before the heart transplant could be performed. He had been notified hours earlier that conditions for the operation were favorable.

Dr. Marcos Villanueva said in an interview that he felt the effort of sending Mr. Johnson to Houston was justified regardless of the results.

The salvage tug Alice Moran was en route from Bermuda and expected to arrive Tuesday for an attempt to pull the Carmania off the smooth coral sand reef. Another tug was dispatched from San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The cruise, originally scheduled to start from Port Everglades, Jan. 20, was cancelled at that time after passengers had gone aboard when the U.S. Coast Guard found four potential safety hazards in violation of the 1960 Safety of Life at Sea Convention which took effect in the U.S. on Nov. 2.

Trudeau Decides Canada Stays In Commonwealth

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is reported today to have made up his mind that Canada will remain in the Commonwealth.

An informant said that after talking with a number of leaders, Trudeau is impressed with the benefits Canada can obtain from Commonwealth membership, despite the association's weakness as a decision-making body.

The informant said that the Canadian leader will say as much when he speaks at the Commonwealth conference during the day.

It is possible that one day something better may be devised, but until that day comes, Canada will stick with the 28-country group, the informant added.

Trudeau is reported to be particularly impressed with Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew and Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere.

REJECTS OLD CLICHES

Trudeau feels that Lee's power lies in his disciplined rejection of old and worn cliches and his great grasp of history. The two held a number of talks during various functions and the Canadian leader found Lee "very stimulating."

Nyerere impressed Trudeau

with his realism and clarity of mind and his practical appraisal of situations. Trudeau also found President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia fascinating and concluded that Kaunda's appeal came from his great feeling of emotion and passion.

Trudeau and Prime Minister Wilson have been reported as having reacted coolly to each other but the informant said this was "very impressive" with the quality of Wilson's mind.

Trudeau took a cautious approach in his talks with Wilson because he found that Wilson was a tough debater and "very clever" in putting over his political views.

Generally, Trudeau sized up the Commonwealth meeting as valuable. He has remarked that Canadians tend to speak in the past of the fathers of confederation and the fathers of American republicanism. Canadians tend to forget that some of the fathers of new countries are currently attending the Commonwealth conference.

Work Stoppage At Brenda Mine Due To Strike

Work has stopped at the Brenda Mines site, 17 miles west of Peachland.

Mine manager Gordon Montgomery said today the stoppage occurred after a picket line was established by the General Teamsters Union.

He said placards carried by strikers said the strike was against Canadian Constructo, one of Brenda's large contractors.

Brenda itself has no contract with the Teamsters and is in the unfortunate position of just having to sit tight.

Asked if Brenda might seek an injunction to have the pickets removed, Mr. Montgomery said any action would have to come from the contractor, or the Amalgamated Construction Association.

Mr. Montgomery said about 40 men were out of work after picket lines were established on the road to the mine site, four miles from Troutman-Garraway sawmill at Peachland.

He said the strike was an outgrowth of a long contract dispute, one which did not directly involve Brenda.

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 300 drivers, members of the Teamsters' Union, went on strike today in a dispute that could tie up most of the heavy construction industry in British Columbia.

A union spokesman said pickets would be posted today at Dominion Construction Ltd., Loring Construction and Equipment Ltd., and Brenda Mines near Peachland in the Okanagan.

The union is seeking a new contract with 19 member firms of the Amalgamated Construction Association and has been promised the full support of building trades unions.

The union has been legally free to strike since Dec. 19 when 72-hour strike notice served on the association expired.

The union accepted a conciliation board report recommending pay increases of 83 cents an hour on a base rate of $3.40 plus a reduction in the working week to 37½ hours from 40 hours.

The ACA's member companies rejected the report.

Economic Problems Topic For London Talks Today

LONDON (CP) — The Commonwealth conference was expected today to deal with economic problems after a weekend during which the Rhodesian issue prompted further tough debate among officials as well as riots in the streets of London.

(The Associated Press reported that a majority of Commonwealth countries have urged a referendum among white and black Rhodesians to test any compromise settlement Britain might reach with the rebel colony.)

African, Asian and other delegates expressed grave doubts that Prime Minister Ian Smith's white-minority Rhodesian government would permit his country's 4,000,000 blacks to express their views freely on a settlement.

The street violence erupted around Rhodesian and South African centres while, elsewhere in the British capital, Prime Minister Trudeau renewed Canada's pledge of support for present sanctions against the Smith government.

Weekend discussion of Rhodesia was part of efforts by aides of Commonwealth leaders to thrash out agreement on how the final conference should treat the issue.

British officials were reported to feel that the drafting sessions went more smoothly than might have been expected.

The main dispute seemed to be whether the communiques should gloss over, or state explicitly, the differences between Britain and those countries such as Canada which to varying degrees do not welcome the latest settlement proposals made by London to the Smith administration.

Reflecting the uncompromising stand of Smith's most rabid enemies were the left-wing demonstrators who tried to storm Rhodesia House Sunday.

Falling in this, some of them smashed windows and pitched flaming rubbish at the London headquarters of the South African government, situated across Trafalgar Square from Canada House.

Police and demonstrators scuffled fiercely. And there were struggles too between leftists and extreme right-wingers who shouted pro-Smith slogans.

Move To Start Peace Talks Rejected By North Vietnam

PARIS (Reuters) — North Vietnam turned down what United States officials called an important concession in an American attempt Sunday to get the Vietnam peace talks under way.

The concession, under which North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, would speak first and choose the order of their speakers, was part of a "package deal" which would also have the conference table divided by a thin strip of balm, the officials said.

The package, offered by deputy chief U.S. negotiator Cyrus R. Vance during a private meeting with Hanoi representatives, was turned down by Col. Ha Van Lau, deputy chief North Vietnamese negotiator, they said.

Vance then proposed a second package which called for either a solid round table or a doughnut-shaped table divided in either case by a drawn or painted line. In this package, Vance or Lau would decide on the order of speakers by drawing lots on behalf of their sides, the U.S. officials said.

The Hanoi delegation said after the meeting "the so-called new proposals" in fact contained nothing new. A statement said Vance's proposals were an attempt to harden the "absurd point of view" of Saigon and Washington on a two-sided conference.

U.S. officials said both American proposals on the speaking order were aimed at countering a North Vietnamese suggestion that lots be drawn by the NLF and South Vietnamese representatives.

The officials said the Hanoi suggestion was an effort to impose a kind of equality between the NLF and Saigon.

Diversion Plan Studies Started

Kamloops — Cariboo MP Len Marchand says a joint committee of federal and B.C. provincial authorities has already had two meetings discussing ramifications of the proposed Shuswap diversion.

Mr. Marchand said he would meet with representatives of the Shuswap Thompson River Research and Development Association to report on federal action regarding the proposed diversion and study.

The MP said, "I made strong representation to include this area in any comprehensive study that will be made and I am sure anything that affects this area's water will surely be considered in the comprehensive study."

"The Shuswap River is not necessarily the source of water that will be used to meet the Okanagan's water requirements and the joint federal-provincial committee will not prejudice the issue."

Mr. Marchand said the two meetings have been held to study the structure of the group that will undertake the comprehensive study.

"I have been assured that local planning groups such as STRADA will be involved and ample time will be provided these groups to make presentations."

He said there was also an inter-departmental committee made up of representatives from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, department of agriculture, department of national health and welfare and the department of energy, mines and resources studying the issue.

Mr. Marchand said the comprehensive study would take two to four years to complete because there are also international implications to consider.

"We are fortunate in this area to have large bodies of unpolluted water but to keep them that way we have to start work now," he said.

Investors Syndicate President Predicts 'Fairly Good' Year

The president of Investors' Syndicate Ltd. will officiate tonight at the retirement banquet of Win Shilvock, branch manager in Kelowna since 1950.

Clare Atchison, president of the Canada-wide organization, arrived today from Winnipeg for the banquet and brings with him a prediction of a "fairly good year" for Canadian business.

The outlook basically is strong, Mr. Atchison said today. "There are international monetary problems, but we look forward to a fairly good year here."

Of main concern in financial circles now is an inflationary trend in the economy, he said, and measures taken to contain it. "Very high interest rates in Canada and the United States," he said, will slow the economy.

However, the dampening effect on business and corporate profits will not hit Canada as hard as it will south of the border, he added.

The Canadian economy will be "spurred" toward the end of the year, Mr. Atchison said. The Canadian trade picture is also better than that of the U.S., according to the president and the Canadian dollar remains strong.

Speaking of Mr. Shilvock's retirement, he praised the Kelowna branch manager's record in the city, the second-longest tenure of any branch manager in Canada.

Mr. Shilvock will be presented with an oil painting and plaque commemorating his service in Kelowna at tonight's banquet.

"He has been a particularly good ambassador in the area," Mr. Atchison said. "He has established many friends and contributed to the community."

The year before Mr. Shilvock opened the branch in Kelowna (which is now the headquarters for the area), sales in the Valley were less than $1,000,000. In 1965, a peak year for the company, sales amounted to more than $10,000,000. Mr. Atchison said this is an admirable sales record.

The retiring branch manager said today he plans to stay with the company, and in Kelowna "looking after my clients."

"I wouldn't move out of here for anything," he said.

A native of Vancouver, Mr. Shilvock graduated from UBC and is a past president of the university's alumni association.

Typical Winter Conditions On All Interior Highways

Highway 97 in the Kelowna area was mostly bare with a compact snow road, sanded, in the department of highways' road report of 7:30 a.m. today.

The Kelowna-Beaverdell road had a compact snow road; plowed and sanded and winter tires or chains were required. Similar conditions were reported on the Vernon-Lumby-Cherryville road, which was in good winter condition with some slippery sections.

The Rogers Pass had snow ranging from one to three inches. Plowing and sanding was in progress and some slippery sections were reported. Winter tires or chains were required.

The Allison Pass had one to two inches of new snow, with a compact snow road. The pass was plowed and sanded and winter tires or chains were necessary.

Two inches of new snow had fallen in the Fraser Canyon. Visibility was extremely poor at Lytton where snow was falling and blowing. Winter tires and chains were required.

Kamloops-Salmon Arm road had a compact snow road. Some slippery sections existed and plowing and sanding was in progress. Similar conditions existed in the Monashee Pass, where winter tires and chains were necessary.

SEEN and HEARD

Reporters can't seem to get their tools straight. For many years they have been stirring their coffee with pencils and wiping their faces with copy paper. A Courier reporter today discovered a new one. He was seen happily cutting Christmas cake with a ruler. Anyone who is this tentative is undoubtedly an excellent Schmuckey player.

Sometimes the coffee ritual can almost become a social get-together and the scene at a downtown drug store would be a case in point. The discussion deal with almost anything, and the New Year's bash, the coming home of relatives, the weather. Sometimes the talk goes like, "where is that girl who used to sit over there, I haven't seen her lately." The coffee drinking almost becomes secondary to the meeting of minds, as patrons leave well up on the latest news and primed to greet another day at the office.

For motorists wondering about the colorful downtown intersections, city crews have the answer. The red-purple effect, which turns snow to slush, is salt, used to make the city's streets safer. At the rate snow keeps falling, the city may soon need its own salt mine.

The wooden steeple of the First Lutheran Church in Kelowna is creating problems for the minister. A woodpecker adopted the steeple as his home recently and the minister is going to all lengths in an effort to remove him. Last week, he was seen trying to hit the bird with a pellet gun. Early today, he had switched to a slingshot but observers said the bird was still winning the battle.

The annual schmuckey blitz is about to hit Kelowna. Teen Town members will cover the city tonight selling tickets to the second annual schmuckey game, at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Kelowna and district Memorial Arena. The game puts the Kelowna RCMP detachment up against the Kelowna newsmen in a comedy hockey game, with all proceeds going to the March of Dimes for the crippled children's hospital in Vancouver.

Changing your address just before Christmas can be a risky business. One Kelowna couple moved from the city to the district during 1968 and changed their address twice, the last time just before the Christmas rush. Kelowna post office people did their best to keep up with the moves, from a Kelowna street number, to general delivery, to a rural box. However, just wasn't time to re-direct all mail as it arrived and as a result the couple is still receiving Christmas cards mailed before the December deadline.

Heart Switch Patient Dies

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Malcolm Whitten, who became the southeastern United States' first human heart transplant patient Jan. 6, died today at the University of Mississippi Medical Center.

The hospital said Whitten had developed "the kind of pneumonia that bedfast old people sometimes get."

CHECKS SHOW

Hong Kong Flu Leaving Valley

Effects of the Hong Kong flu, which invaded the area during December, seem to be decreasing.

A survey early today showed that while the flu is still in the community it seems to be less devastating number-wise than before.

Kelowna General Hospital had about 25 nursing staff off last week, however, a hospital spokesman said the situation had improved today. "It appears to be a little better than a week ago," the spokesman said. Almost double that figure were absent the week previously.

However, because of the virus, visiting has been voluntarily restricted by the public, with only relatives of patients allowed to visit hospital patients.

Other hospitals in Burns Lake, Summerland and on the Lower Mainland have made similar regulations.

The hospital has not yet cancelled elective surgery as was once considered should the problem become more acute.

Two or three doctors were off last week, the spokesman said. Similar flu situations exist at the city hall. Bob Wilson, assistant city clerk said there is no major problem because of the flu, but that last week "we were short a few people." Today there is only one absentee.

The manager of a department store said there are only a few more absentees than usual. Four of a staff of 30 were off last week, he said. "The problem is not serious but it is a nuisance." Asked if it was posing any major problems, he said no.

"We have had some mild cases of flu, said a spokesman for a local supermarket with some employees missing a day or two. Two or three "part timers" were off Saturday because of the virus.

Fred Macklin, secretary-treasurer board of trustees school district 23 said "staff and student absenteeism has been no greater than usual."

At Dr. Knox the absentee rate is a little higher than usual. Principal Glyn Jones said today the student absentee rate is up to about 10 per cent, compared to the normal six per cent.

The rate of staff absenteeism increased toward the end of last week but today it has returned to normal.

The figures do not include anything alarming, said Mr. Jones.

The flu has not cut into the efficiency of the RCMP operation, Sgt. R. F. Sault said. "So far a number of members have come down with the virus but it has just so happened they were sick on their days off. It hasn't created a problem. About eight members of the detachment have had the flu in the past four weeks," he concluded.

Dr. D. A. Clarke, medical health officer for the South Okanagan Health Unit said detailed figures on absentee rates in district 23 schools would be available Tuesday.

At Kelowna Secondary the absentee rate among students is only slightly higher than normal. "We have a higher rate than a week ago," said principal Peter McLoughlin. Two hundred forty eight students were away Friday, compared with 235 today.

One Theft, Three Mishaps Investigated By Mounties

One theft and three traffic accidents kept the RCMP busy during the weekend.

An oil drum and pump, valued at $57, was stolen Saturday night from a home at 843 Coronation Ave. The equipment belonged to Serwa Bulldozing Ltd., 1535 Moody Rd., Kelowna.

Two of the car accidents were blamed on icy road conditions. L. A. Taylor, 1410 Richmond St., lost control of his car one mile below the summit of Big White Mountain causing about $200 damage to the vehicle. The accident occurred at 1 p.m. Saturday.

A head-on collision Saturday at 2:45 p.m. involved William Smeltzer, Pandosy Street, and Charles Cote, Peachland. The crash occurred on East Mountain Road and resulted in about $750 total damage.

Extent of damages is not known in a two-car collision Saturday at 4:15 p.m. on Bulman Road. Drivers were Jacob Thlensen, Beaver Lake Road, and Robert Hogan, Ethel Street. Police said there were no injuries.

Preliminary Date Named In Snow Vehicle Case

A preliminary hearing date was set today for three Winfield men facing charges of possession of a stolen snow vehicle.

Wayne, Herbert and Thomas Stone will appear Jan. 20 for the hearing before Magistrate G. S. Denroche. The three have elected trial by judge without a jury.

Wayne Stone is also charged with possession of a sawed-off rifle, with a barrel less than 20 inches long, and pleaded not guilty in magistrate's court today. He was remanded on this charge to Jan. 20 while a trial date is set.

Another trial date was set in court today. Edward Chmilar, Kelowna, will appear Jan. 27 to face a charge of having care and control of a vehicle while impaired. He pleaded not guilty today.

In custody today was Mike Toma, Kelowna, charged Sunday with having care and control of a vehicle while impaired.

CLOUDY weather is forecast for Kelowna Tuesday. Occasional snow today and Tuesday is expected. Winds should be light. The high and low in Kelowna Tuesday are forecast for 20 and 15. The high and low in Kelowna Saturday were 20 and 13, while on the same date one year ago the high and low were at 34 and 23 with a trace of snow. The high and low in Kelowna Sunday were 19 and 12 with 2 inches of snow, while on the same date one year ago the high and low were 38 and 31.

College Budget To Arbitration?

School district 23 (Vernon) may take the Okanagan Regional College 1969 budget to arbitration if it is not revised to the school board's satisfaction.

School district 22 (Vernon) The possibility such action may be considered as voiced at a school board meeting in Vernon last week by trustee A. C. Mickelson, the school district's representative on the college council.

Last November, the school board declined to approve the college council's proposed 1969 budget of $655,350, of which this district's share would be 21.95 per cent, $123,242.

Some three weeks later, the school board members attended a college council meeting in Kelowna at which they outlined their reasons for opposing the proposed budget.

They urged that a number of revisions be made to the budget, including deletion of a $10,500 item for lease payment on the Westbank site, and insisted that stronger representation be made to the provincial government for ore substantial financial assistance.

The school board delegation was assured its proposed revisions would be considered by the college council before the final budget was presented for consideration.

Trustee Mickelson told Tuesday night's meeting, "We have had no response from the college council regarding our request for a revised budget." He said they have until Jan. 15 to submit it to the school districts for approval.

"We do have an alternative in the event we don't like their revisions," he remarked. "We can take it to arbitration and it's a possibility I think we should consider."

Trustee Mickelson said a meeting of the college council is scheduled for tonight by which time the final budget revisions may be presented.

"But in the meantime," he said, "we're still waiting. All we can do is sit here and twiddle our thumbs and hope something is done."

Trustee Mickelson said later the provision which allows any of the participating school districts to take a regional college budget to arbitration is contained in the Public Schools Act.

The school board must submit its annual budget to the department of education by Feb. 15. Therefore, if it chooses to take the college budget to arbitration, it must do so before that date.

At the meeting Nov. 29 between the school board and the college council representatives, which was attended by reporters, the council adopted motions affirming the multi-campus concept and giving a commitment that the sites question will be investigated and the controversial Westbank site would be cancelled should it be "shown to be inappropriate."

The press has not been invited to attend tonight's meeting.

Penticton Again Requested To Participate In College

An invitation to the City of Penticton to join the Okanagan college scheme was extended Friday by college principal Dr. R. S. Grant.

"You could be involved in this if you wished," he said.

"It is evident the college at this time is located more in the north end of the Valley than in the south," he said, "but plans are to establish a southern centre in Penticton, providing Penticton is agreeable."

"We must have a campus in the southern area."

The wish of the college administration, Dr. Grant said, is to establish not a multi-campus junior college, but to build associated community colleges in Okanagan centres.

Junior colleges, he said, cater mainly to first and second year students freshly out of high school.

On the other hand, the purpose of a community college is to serve adults as well as students, plus the community at large.

The present aim of the college, he said, is that when it is firmly established, as many as 30 per cent of the students would be adults — adults who were retraining or further educating themselves, and adults who wish to take one or two courses as well as hold a full-time job.

In addition the entire community would be encouraged to use the college library facilities.

If Penticton were to join the college scheme, said south Okanagan school superintendent Gordon Paton, the grade 13 program would no longer be necessary.

In many areas in other parts of Canada, he said, college programs have been no more expensive to the taxpayer than grade 13, and college is a much better recommendation for a student proceeding to university than grade 13.

A change in the university requirements for first year chemistry has virtually eliminated all prospective science students from grade 13, he said. However the course offered by the college is acceptable.

The addition of a second-year program to the college would increase the overall cost only about 20 per cent. Second year programs are scheduled to start in the fall of this year.

Dr. Grant added that in terms of mills, the cost of the college this year to the eight participating school boards averages 69 mills, with a maximum of 75 mills being paid.

Efforts are being made to keep the cost below 1.3 mills. Figures are on the basis of a 50-50 cost-sharing program with the provincial government. However, Dr. Grant said, there is a possibility in the future the province's share could be as high as 80 per cent.

Popular Speaking Course Again Offered In Kelowna

In conjunction with the adult education department of school district 23, the Kelowna and District Junior Chamber of Commerce is again this year conducting the annual effective speaking class.

The first meeting of students was held last Tuesday, however, only a small turnout resulted. The second in this series of 10 lessons will be held this Tuesday, at 7 p.m., at room 118 in the Kelowna Secondary School complex. Registration fee for the course is $5 per person.

The reputation and format of this course are both well established as Jaycees across Canada have conducted it as a night school course for more than 10 years. The course structure and content has been continually revised in accordance with helpful suggestions and criticisms from past students and professional consultants.

All those who participated last year found their time extremely well spent and expressed surprise at their newly-found ease and facility in speaking before gatherings of different sizes.

The course will again be under the direction of Ernie Busch, who is perhaps the most experienced instructor along this line in this area.

The course begins with familiarizing students with the problem of nervousness and sets out simple solutions to this problem. Lessons on the basic parts of any speech follow and instruction and practice is given on various public speaking techniques such as voice inflection and gestulation, eye contact and artful use of public address systems. A number of lessons are devoted to public speaking in the form of the debate. Past students indicate these lessons assist in everything from providing family conversation at the supper table to winning a serious argument with the boss. Attitudes and approaches to handling introductions, toasts, impromptu speeches and humorous anecdotes are the topic of later lectures.

Classes are held on Tuesday of each week and last two hours a session. Included within the $5 tuition charge is a banquet, which is held on the final evening in conjunction with a small speaking contest between class participants.

Two Alarms For Brigade

A gasoline fire was quickly extinguished Sunday after a service station pump was knocked over and began to burn.

The Kelowna fire brigade rushed to a general alarm fire at Pete's BA, 1110 Harvey Ave., at 9:15 p.m., where an attendant had knocked a vehicle into a gasoline pump.

RCMP attended the accident and said there was little or no damage.

The fire brigade was also called out to extinguish a chimney fire, Saturday at 6 p.m. The blaze was at 1280 Mountain Ave., and no damage resulted.

The Commonwealth

The Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference is now in session in London and, as yet, as this is being written, none of the participating 28 countries have threatened to leave the Commonwealth "unless".

In past conferences some member or another, for one reason or another, has threatened to leave the organization. In our opinion, up to now, Britain has gone far beyond the limits of prudence in appeasing the malcontents.

Latterly, however, there seems to have been a change in mood in Britain where public opinion is increasingly questioning whether the Commonwealth in its present form justifies its existence. This is largely the result of the discrimination against Britain that is now taken for granted by several members, who at the same time assume as a matter of course that Britain should take most of the load and the responsibilities and that they should take none. The British people now seem to have reached the mood to do what other Commonwealth countries have done from the start: weigh up the advantages of membership against the disadvantages, seek to strike a balance and be prepared to act accordingly. Any Commonwealth prime minister intending to persist in threats to leave the Commonwealth unless he gets his way on matters affecting Britain should bear the new mood of the British public in mind.

Many members would, rightly, not for one moment allow their own policies to be debated, nor submit to direction; the Nigerian war and the Kashmir dispute and the Rhodesian problem, are cases in point. If Mr. Wilson is subjected to unreasonable pressure he, too, may walk out—and, if need be, stay out.

It is quite true the Commonwealth is an astonishing phenomenon, which has endured long enough for everybody to stop being surprised. If it has no value, the repeated prophecies of collapse would have come true. The challenge to members now is not how to keep the Commonwealth periculously in being, but how to develop fruitful co-operation. No gathering of 28 countries, each with its own problems and prejudices, can be all sweetness and light. What does matter is that differences should be examined realistically. It is not realistic to demand—as some African states are again likely to do—that Britain should use force against Mr. Ian Smith in Rhodesia. Getting angry because Britain or any other Commonwealth member fails to do something it cannot do is a waste of energy and time.

There are those who say that the Commonwealth is worse than futile. But would the members' politicians have behaved more sensibly if the Commonwealth had been abolished? We doubt it. Even today the Commonwealth has its uses, provided that its leaders realize its limitations.

The Commonwealth originally meant "the common or public good." In its modern incarnation it was once a community of nations which recognized the British monarch as their sovereign, pooled their financial resources, exchanged tariff preferences and preferential access to capital markets, incorporated the Union Jack into their national flags and treated each others' citizens as nationals. Today half the members are republics. Membership in the sterling area is shared by some, though not all, Commonwealth countries with others that have left the Commonwealth or never belonged. So is the exchange of tariff preferences and preferential access to capital markets. Now that Britain has acted to control Commonwealth immigration, none of the members profess to regard each others' citizens as nationals.

It might reasonably be asked how anything so nebulous as the Commonwealth can be positively baneful. Part of the answer is that the impact of Commonwealth membership on the formulation of Britain's international policies is far from nebulous. In the name of Commonwealth solidarity, Britain pursues the chimera of a negotiated settlement in Rhodesia involving obligations that she cannot possibly fulfil. In the name of Commonwealth solidarity Britain postponed its military withdrawal from Asia, and may yet reverse it. In the name of Commonwealth solidarity she provides arms for Nigeria and deprives herself of trade with South Africa. In the name of Commonwealth solidarity she created a major racial problem for herself, and then reneged on solemn undertakings to Kenyan Asians to avoid adding to its dimensions. And in the name of Commonwealth solidarity, Britain has hovered on the edge of Europe.

But still, above all, the Commonwealth is, despite what its critics say, a place where rich and poor nations can meet on something like equal terms. Even today it can be a club to bring together strangers in a world which fills them with fear and suspicion.

The Commonwealth can today gather a large number of international leaders, black and white, rich and poor, in an informality and even intimacy which cannot be matched by any other world organization. The Commonwealth is emerging from a period of extraordinary transformation. It has been badly shaken in the process and has now reached pretty well its final size and pattern. The idea of a Commonwealth has survived to now—just. The fashion of belittling it, abusing it, predicting its collapse, may also be ending.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

Pastoral Scene Of Britain Gains In Anti-Pollution Fight

LONDON (CP) — Once, a standby of the thriller writers was the yellow London fog from which a disembodied arm would emerge, a knife flash and then all would disappear again into the murk.

Sherlock Holmes would dive into it on occasion, to emerge with the solution, and around Limehouse Sax Rohmer-type Orientals would glide through it on evil errands.

Real-life Londoners more prosaically bumped into lamp posts, fell off curbs or bashed headlights.

But now the London pea-soup of romance and nuisance is well on the way out, thanks to science. A heavy fog these days is one where you can't see more than half a block and getting around is somewhat less tough than, say, the Nova Scotia shore on a thick evening.

For the last dozen years a determined fight has been on against the smog-combination of fog and smoke—that enveloped London and other industrial areas for centuries. The scientists are obviously winning, with the backing of tough laws, though it will be a long time—if ever—before the air of this town gets really pure.

CLEANSE WATERS

On an allied front, a big push to clean up Britain's inland waters is in progress. Slowly over the centuries the much-hymned pastoral streams have given way to industrial and other pollution until stretches of some resemble the dead waters of North American factory-side rivers.

Many of the fish have disappeared. The salmon, for instance, have fled the industrialized Tyne and Tees rivers in the north. The Thames once was a salmon river but none have been around for ages in this murky stream which in the last century became so smelly that they hung up bleach-soaked curtains in the Houses of Parliament to keep out the stench.

Recently, the Thames has been making a comeback for fish, with the help of a $60,000,000-a-year program for purifying the 300,000,000 gallons of sewage that goes into its lower reaches daily. So have the Tyne, Tees and others of scores of polluted rivers.

A system of 34 boards of control covering each of the main river basins has been exercising tight control over what goes into them for about 20 years. And since 1951 it has been a criminal offence to violate sewage-control standards, with a second offence punishable by prison. There have been no second offenders in that time.

CONCERNED EARLY

Concern about water pollution began only in the mid-19th century, when it started an outbreak of cholera, and nothing much was done for a good many years except for the holding of miscellaneous royal commissions. Air pollution worries go back much earlier.

Complaints about filthy air are on record as far back as 1273. A royal proclamation banned the use of coal in artificers' furnaces in 1306 and one man was executed as a result. That didn't help much through the centuries.

The thing that really stirred up the authorities into hard-boiled action came in December, 1952. A choking miasma clutched Londoners by the throat for four days and caused an estimated 4,000 deaths from respiratory illnesses.

Four years later another 1,000 people with fog-weakened chests died in a new descent of the smog. But Parliament was acting by that time and in the same year passed the Clean Air Act setting up

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Too Much Water Can Prove Fatal

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

Is it possible to drink liquids in such volume that a person could literally inwardly drown?

Also what should be the daily average liquid intake of a normal person?—G.W.

Yes, it is possible to drink too much water—but your use of the word "drown" isn't quite correct. Drowning implies that water has filled the lungs or has shut off the passage of oxygen to the lungs.

When one drinks too much water, the water does not get into the lungs and does not shut off air.

Rather, excessive intake of water (into the stomach) can distort the sodium level in the body and lead to swelling and mental confusion.

The chance of this happening in ordinary life is remote. When it happens, it is usually when water is forced—that is, when a patient obviously needs fluids—in the presence of faulty kidney function. The kidneys cannot dispose of the fluid as rapidly as they should. In a normal individual, this does not happen because surplus water will be met by an increased release through the kidneys, in the form of urine.

As a general thing, there is more chance of a person getting too little fluid than too much.

Ordinarily, however, thirst is a thoroughly reliable guide, and you don't have to worry about the exact amount you need. If you are thirsty, you'll drink enough for your needs.

The amount you need isn't always the same. In hot weather you perspire. Exercise causes loss of water, both as perspiration and water vapor which you exhale. In cooler weather—and when you are not exercising strenuously, you don't need as much.

It averages out to a need of about 2½ quarts of water a day for an adult, but this does not mean that you have to drink that much. Fruits, vegetables, and meats contain a great deal of moisture. For just one example, consider potato which comes in dried, powdered form. Note how much water has to be added to bring it to the consistency of mashed potatoes.

Thus a large portion of your daily water ration comes from what you eat instead of what you drink. You get still more in soups, sauces, coffee, tea, and so on. Two or three glasses of water a day, actually drunk as plain water, is generally plenty, and folks who drink a good deal of coffee, tea, soft drinks (or hard ones) may not need even that much in the form of plain water. They get the fluid with the various flavorings they fancy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have to take one-quarter grain of phenobarbital for my heart, as I have many premature ventricular contractions and palpitations. I am supposed to take one tablet in the morning and another before retiring. Is it safe to take it indefinitely?—N.Y.

That small dose is not harmful and can be taken as long as it benefits you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can an operation be done on a person who has cirrhosis of the liver?—H.E.

If you mean an operation to cure the cirrhosis, the answer is no. The liver has degenerated, and removing part of it would not improve anything.

If there is bleeding from varicose veins in the lower esophagus—which can result from cirrhosis—there is an operation to shut the blood flow away from that area. This is done to correct the bleeding but has no effect on the cirrhosis.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Mid-East War Seen In Cairo

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Al Ahran, Nasser's semi-official mouthpiece predicts another Arab-Israeli war for 1969. The way things are going, this is an easy or rather a tempting prediction to make but though one should on no account underestimate human capacity for folly, even among the extremely intelligent Israelis, one should also keep in mind that this new war would be illogical from Israel's point of view.

The first Arab-Israeli war in the nineteen forties established the Israeli state. The second, in 1958, was launched in conjunction with France and Britain to take the Suez canal away from Nasser, punish the Egyptians for their commando raids and give Israel freedom of the Suez canal. Had the Anglo-French action not been reversed in the UN by a Russo-American agreement, the Israelis could have hoped to see their position strengthened diplomatically and militarily.

FIFTH COLUMN

The 1967 war gave Israel its ideal frontiers: in the north, the heights that dominate the demarcation line with Syria; in the east, the Jordan River and complete possession of Jerusalem, an incalculable emotional gain for the Jews; in the south, the entire Sinai peninsula with control of the Suez canal and of the Tiran straits. The present boundaries of Israel are the most easily defensible.

Even so, the capture of Jordan's west bank has created a whole set of new problems for Israel, the sort of problems that make a new war illogical: Israel now has more Arabs living within its boundaries than before and the Arabs are hostile, they provide support and information for infiltrating Arab guerrillas. Any further territorial conquest by Israel would only aggravate this problem.

It is conceivable that an Israeli motorized column could take Cairo or Damascus or Baghdad. But Israel would have to strike and withdraw. Israel could not hold more Arab territory. The fall of an Arab capital would be a crippling blow to the Arabs and there are many western experts who argue that further humiliation of the Arabs by Israel only makes a peace settlement more difficult.

Israel, obviously, does not agree with this policy of sparing Arab feelings. In fact, Israel seems clearly embarked upon a policy of showing the Arabs that their tactics of sabotage and harassment can be turned against them and prove very costly.

This, the Israelis can do without a war. Commando raids are enough. They could strike at any Arab city, destroy important government installations at night, when they are empty of people, wreck airfields and ports and generally make the continuation of a state of war enormously expensive for the Arabs. It is not inconceivable that Israel might blow up the Asswan dam or a dam on the Tigris and Euphrates, or the Iraq oil fields. This sort of thing, rather than war is what will happen in 1969.

CANADA'S STORY

Vancouver Island Leased For $1.75

By BOB BOWMAN

How would you like to lease Vancouver Island for $1.75 a year? That's what the Hudson's Bay Company did on Jan. 13, 1849. The deal was actually seven shillings a year, and they would have been worth about $1.75 at that time. The arrangement lasted until 1867 when the British government regained possession. Vancouver Island and the mainland had been united in 1860, and they became part of Canada in 1871.

The reason the Hudson's Bay Company got such a good deal from the British government was because the U.S. had "acquired" California from Mexico (it wasn't done very politely) and Britain needed a strong base on the Pacific coast. However, Britain had been through years of depression and didn't want to spend much money on Vancouver Island, so the Hudson's Bay Company agreed to establish military bases and bring in colonists.

Richard Blanshard was chosen to be the first governor, but the British government would not pay him any salary. He took the job because he was ambitious to make a name for himself in the diplomatic service. He was given to understand that he would have an estate of 1,000 acres. He had a mental picture of the beautiful estates in England, with their mansions, and perhaps thought this was what he would own on Vancouver Island. Imagine his disappointment when he arrived and found that his estate was 1,000 acres of forest which he would have to clear at his own expense. There wasn't even a house for him and he had to live for a month on the ship that brought him.

However, Blanshard wasn't the only arrival who was disappointed. One government official brought out a fine carriage and team of horses, only to learn that there were no roads. Another brought equipment for playing cricket, a game which requires a playing surface as smooth as the grassy part of a baseball infield.

However, to Blanshard's credit, he did his best although he only lasted a year. One of Victoria's most important streets is named after him.

OTHER EVENTS ON JAN. 13:

Santa Marie De La Rosa Wreck Found Last Summer

DUBLIN (AP) — The remains of the Santa Marie de la Rosa, a ship of the Spanish Armada sunk in 1588, have been found, but hopes of recovering her reputed treasure must wait until next summer.

When Lt.-Cmdr. John Grant, 33, of the Royal Navy, surfaced in the middle of Blasket Sound with the cry, "We've found her!" it ended a four-month search in which 15 divers covered 3,000 acres.

The Santa Marie de la Rosa was one of 21 ships of the Armada which sank off the Irish coast in September, 1588, after Philip of Spain's abortive attempt to invade Elizabethan England.

Everybody knew the Santa Marie lay in the sound. Fishermen who speak only the ancient Gaelic language knew it because their fathers told them—a legend handed down through the generations. In Spain there are documents describing exactly how the ship sank in London are accounts of how she sank with only a single survivor of the 233 soldiers and 64 sailors on board.

The exact location was a mystery until last July. The wreck lies in the form of a long heap of ballast stones pointing approximately northwest. Cannon shot of three sizes and terra cotta pottery have been hauled to the surface.

DIVERS KEEP MUM

The divers are silent about any discovery of treasure. Documents in London, dated 1588, say the galleon carried 50,000 gold ducats and 50,000 silver coins. Today that would be worth about $2,000,000.

John P. King, Dublin lawyer who acts for the diving team, says: "We have been granted a licence by the Spanish government to salvage a Spanish wreck. We deposited a bond of $3,000 in return for which we may retain all objects of historical interest and 80 per cent of all coin or other treasure. The Spanish government retaining the remaining 20 per cent."

The treasure hunt starts again this summer.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD ANCELL
(Paul Ponich Studios)

Pretty Wedding For Valley Bride

WINFIELD (Special)—Snowy fir boughs, Christmas decorations and fir sprays tied with red and white ribbons marked the pews and made a beautiful setting for the candlelight ceremony which united in marriage Evelyn Mae Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Peter Johnson, Winfield and Edward Ellis Ancell of Kelowna, son of Mrs. Margaret Ancell of Williams Lake and Thomas Henry Ancell of Port Moody.

Jim Wannop officiated at the double-ring ceremony which took place at 7 p.m. on Jan. 4 in the Winfield United Church. The wedding music was played by organist, Mrs. Charles Christian of Winfield.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a short dress of white figured peau d'elephant fashioned in an A line with high stand-up collar and long bell-shaped sleeves. Silver and mother-of-pearl sequins studded the stand-up collar and the edge of the bell sleeves, her headpiece was an aurora borealis tiara and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

For something old, something borrowed, something blue, she wore her maternal grandmother's engagement ring which contained blue sapphires, also her grandmother's watch which she borrowed from her aunt Lou and she also wore pearl earrings which were a gift from her father.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Alice Marshall of Vernon was her matron of honor. She wore a short dress of red velvet fashioned on the same lines as the bride and she carried a bouquet of red-tipped white carnations. In her hair she wore a number of tiny red velvet bows, her only jewellery was a drop pearl necklace, the gift of the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was Brian Russell of Kelowna and the ushers were Ross and Bob McCoubrey of Winfield. One hundred guests attended the reception held in the Dillman Room in the Rutland Centennial Hall decorated with baskets of flowers in gold and bronze tones.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Johnson wore a red wool dress fashioned with round neckline and long sleeves under a mink jacket. Her accessories were black and a white gardenia corsage complemented her outfit.

The groom's mother chose a grey wool suit with a blue patterned blouse and deep blue accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations and roses.

The three-tiered wedding cake, made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. F. L. McClintock of Vernon, was topped by a trio of wedding bells and tulle and pink roses on each corner of each layer. It stood on the bride's table flanked by red and white tapers in crystal and silver candlesticks. Emcee at the reception was John McCoubrey.

P. C. Greer proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably answered; then he proposed the toast to the matron of honor. The bride and groom toasted each other in silver cups given to them by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Leo Smith of Vernon. Mr. McCoubrey read two telegrams from relatives unable to attend.

The knife the happy couple used to cut the cake was more than 100 years old and was lent for the occasion by an old family friend, Mrs. E. F. Crowder.

Before leaving, the bride changed into a wine, red wool cape suit with white turtle neck sweater. The cape was lined with white pile and edged with white fur, and she wore black cossack boots. Her corsage was a white gardenia. The bride designed and made her going-away outfit and also made her wedding dress.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ancell of Port Moody; Don Ancell of Burnaby; Mrs. Margaret and Miss Lynda Ancell of Williams Lake; also John and Douglas Hardbottle and Rocky O'Brien of Williams Lake; and from Vernon came Mr. and Mrs. Leo Smith, Mrs. F. L. McClintock, Mrs. W. H. Pollard, Karen Wayne and a friend, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Borho and Mrs. Arnie Viedeman and from Okanagan Falls, Mrs. Eva Fetterley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Ted) Ancell will reside at Suite 302, 1761 Pandosy St., Kelowna.

Flowers Bloom On New Dresses

NEW YORK (AP) — Flowers of all sizes, shapes and varieties bloomed in profusion Tuesday at the American Designer show, showing of spring fashions for some 200 reporters.

George Stavropoulos, the Greek-born ready-to-wear designer, showed white organza dresses with flowers—tulips, daisies, roses and dogwood. Style varied—one was a satin-trimmed short-sleeved, one a pannelled sheath. The posies were priced high, however. Stavropoulos clothes run into four figures retail.

Almost all of Stavropoulos's costumes were classic and simple, with style depending on cut, rather than gimmicks.

Pants were not really pants—instead they were draped dresses, unseamed, carefully cut to give the appearance of slacks. Silhouettes came from the 1940s. One highlight was an orange scarf dress, knotted in front below the hips, with an uneven hemline.

ALSO GREW FLOWERS

Chester Weinberg also grew a garden of flowers, most of them in pale pastel prints, blooming widely on jump suits or evening dresses.

Other Weinberg trademarks included enormous wing sleeves on both short and long dresses; coolie hats which matched or contrasted with costumes; and obi inset waistbands of fabrics matching the dresses.

Weinberg used flaring panels to add a super feminine touch to pants and, simply cut dresses. The panels flared out from the high waistlines and covered free-moving, but straight skirts.

Both designers drew from the entire rainbow for their colors. Stavropoulos particularly favored bright blues, bright greens and a bright red he called persimmon.

ANN LANDERS

If Boyfriend Likes Skirts Pass Up The Pantsuits

Dear Ann Landers: The other evening I went to pick up my girl to take her to dinner. When she answered the door I said, "Hi Harold." I thought it was her brother.

June had on one of those pantsuits. With her short haircut and a button-down collar she looked just like a guy. I told her I didn't like the way she looked and, furthermore, I was afraid they wouldn't let us into the Ritz Hotel dining room dressed that way. She gave me a black look and said, "I'll change but I think you are being very provincial." Her lower lip stuck out all evening and we had a rotten time.

Will you please tell me if I was wrong to say anything? I told June when we said good night that if I wanted to date somebody in trousers there are two guys in the office who have hinted they'd like to go out with me. She didn't care much for that remark.

I love June and I don't want to have any trouble with her. Please tell me if you think a man has the right to express his views on how his girl looks? —CHILLED CHUCK

Dear Chuck: I do, indeed. Pantsuits are in vogue, and some women look smashing in them. If, however, a boyfriend or a husband prefers that the light of his life wear a skirt when she goes with him, his wishes should be respected.

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't think I am a selfish, possessive mother. Nothing could be further from the truth. The problem is the other set of in-laws.

My husband and I would enjoy being with our daughter and her husband for an occasional evening without the other in-laws monopolizing the conversation with "their plans, trips, projects."

Please understand, Ann, they are fine folks, but they are overwhelming. We can't get a word in edgewise. Whenever my husband and I return from an evening with the four of them we feel we could just as well have stayed at home.

What do you suggest? —MAINE DILEMMA

Meckling, chairman of the Kinsmen Mother's March, guest speaker at the recent general meeting of the Kinette Club of Kelowna in Capri hotel, solicited assistance for the annual March here for funds for the Kinsmen Rehabilitation Foundation in B.C. This fund is used to help the disabled through vocational services.

With Mrs. Fred Fowler, president, in the chair, the various committee conveners reported a busy year's end for the Kinettes.

Mrs. C. W. Johnston reporting on the Yuletide sale stated that an excellent profit was made on this venture. Winner of the raffle for Christmas baking was Mrs. Millie Bryde, Kelowna.

Another successful Kin Stag was reported by Mrs. A. G. Hampson.

Mrs. P. M. Bulatovich reviewed the Christmas party for the children of Sunnyside School on Dec. 19 and she also reported on the Christmas wrapping booth in a department store.

Mrs. G. E. Day advised the club that the Kinsmen, with the assistance of the Kinettes has assembled and delivered 22 hampers to needy families on Dec. 23.

Stuffed toys were again cleaned and delivered to the fire hall for distribution in Christmas hampers, according to the report of Mrs. W. E. Collinson.

Appreciation to all the members was expressed by Mrs. C. A. Charles for their assistance during the visit of Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova and a special thank-you was given to the Kinettes who helped during the night of the public meeting with Dr. Hirschmanova as guest speaker.

The next meeting has been changed to Feb. 10 at Capri hotel because the Mother's March Campaign night falls on the regular meeting date of Feb. 3.

Spring Fashion Collections Include Pantsuits For Rain

NEW YORK (AP) — Rain, rain don't go away. There are too many pretty costumes to wear when it showers.

Victor Joris, designing for Cuddlecoast, included several rain pantsuits in his spring collection, previewed Wednesday at the American Designer showings.

Several featured full length coats—in the fit-and-flare silhouette Joris predicted would be the most popular spring look—over full-legged pants with hemline slanted from front to back. One outstanding coat was laced up the back in criss-cross style in leather.

For fair weather, the designer showed similar pantsuits in different fabrics. Highlight of the presentation was a bright red 1940s-style jacket over matching pants. The jacket featured a long rolled collar, fitted waist and single button.

For the woman who's wondering what to wear under all those pantsuits, the lingerie firm of Olga presented several alternatives, among them an extra-long legged girdle for a smooth line from waist to knee.

At the other extreme, there were mini-girdles and mini-slips for mini-skirts and even an all-in-one outfit, that looked kind of like a girl's gym suit except in nylon tricot.

Noting that many women now are wearing night gowns as evening gowns, the commentator introduced a new type of lingerie—called loungeie—and designed to be worn either for sleeping or as a hostess costume. One of the prettiest of this line was a long, blue shirt-waist - style tricot gown.

Pant Outfits Top Spring Styles

NEW YORK (CP) — With the end of fashion week in sight, there's no question as to what the designers consider the most important spring style. It's the pants outfit.

However, it's a pants style that isn't disastrous for most figures as were the initial pants-suits of last season with their high jacket. This spring the jackets are actually short coats and cover the derriere strategically.

The jumper is the biggest look outside the pants suit, says fashion expert Eleanor Lambert, co-ordinator of the American Designer Showings.

SPECTACULAR SPILLS IN SNOWMOBILE RACES

Snowmobiles Spectacular In First Okanagan Meet

Success created its own problems Sunday in the first Okanagan Snowmobile Championships.

More than 3,000 spectators fought their way to the scene of the championships on the road to Last Mountain near Westbank. The large throng created several parking problems and generally slowed the day's activities.

But the sponsors, Kelowna and Westbank Lions clubs were overjoyed by the turnout and the entire success of the event.

More than 80 snowmobiles and drivers competed from as far away as Edmonton.

But when the final race ended, just before darkness, it was B.C. drivers, and Okanagan ones in particular, that dominated the races.

Both the class A and class B winners were from Vernon while the class C winner was from Prince George.

Don Stinn was the overall winner in Class A, John Wolfe in Class B and C. Watkinson in Class C. All three will get a bye into the B.C. Championships to be held next month in Vernon.

However, all finishes are subject to verification by the B.C. Snowmobile Association.

The Okanagan Championship was the first event of its kind held in the Kelowna area and organizers encountered the usual growing pains. Races took a little longer than expected ending just before darkness.

A lack of experience in compiling results kept officials busy until early today in arriving at final standings.

Namath Bitter ... But Elated

MIAMI (AP) — Joe Namath had just led his New York Jets to a stunning 16-7 victory over Baltimore Colts. He was elated.

He also was thirsty, dirty, tired and bitter.

"Are you one of those NFL writers?" he asked each reporter who approached him in the Jets' dressing room.

Stripped to his football pants and socks, Namath slouched on a bench and well wishers and writers strained to get near him. It was at least 100 degrees in the crowded Jets dressing room and he was soaked with perspiration. His long black mane hung down in damp ringlets.

"Nobody believed we would win," he kept saying. "Nobody but the New York fans gave us a chance. Where were you guys?"

After about 20 minutes of questions and congratulations, a little man wearing a Super Bowl straw hat pushed through and tapped Joe on the arm, almost timidly.

"Hey, Dad," he yelled, "where'd you get that hat?" Then they hugged each other.

After an hour, Joe made his way to the training table and began cutting away the tape on his feet and knees. The purple scars on his knees stood out in contrast against the white flesh. They were the only signs of wear on the 25-year-old who made football history when he signed a $400,000 contract with the Jets four years ago.

"Do you feel sorry for Morral?" he was asked.

"Better him than me," replied Joe. "Do you think anyone would be crying for me now if the Colts had won? Hah!"

Joe was angered when somebody asked him if the Super Bowl had been his greatest game.

"You must be one of them NFL writers," he sneered. "Just because we beat an NFL team doesn't mean it was our best game."

"I was confident we would win ... we all were," he said. "Confidence is one thing and overconfidence is something else. If we didn't have confidence we shouldn't have been here."

FORECAST VICTORY

Joe's outspoken victory predictions made headlines before the game and many writers forecast he would pay for his remarks when the Colts' defensive line got a shot at him. But they never really got to him.

"I got good protection," he said. "It was a team effort. Everybody was great."

Top Players Sharp In Weekend Play

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Picking the top player in the National Hockey League Sunday would be a monumental task.

Phil Esposito, Bobby Hull, Frank Mahovlich and Glenn Hall all had sensational games as their teams gained victories.

Mahovlich scored four goals to lead Detroit Red Wings to a 5-1 victory against Oakland Seals while Hull had two goals and an assist to pace Chicago Black Hawks to a 4-2 triumph against Los Angeles Kings.

Esposito, meanwhile, assisted on five goals to help Boston Bruins to an 8-4 win over Pittsburgh Penguins and Hall made 31 saves in goal as St. Louis Blues blanked Minnesota North Stars 2-0.

In games Saturday, Boston trounced Montreal Canadiens 6-3, Toronto Maple Leafs took Los Angeles 4-2, Detroit nipped New York Rangers 3-2, Philadelphia Flyers "owned" Minnesota 4-2, St. Louis walloped Chicago 6-1 and Oakland took Pittsburgh 4-2.

Mahovlich appears headed for his finest season since 1960-61 with Toronto when he scored 48 goals.

MOVES INTO 10TH

The four goals moved Mahovlich into 10th place in all-time NHL scoring with 228 goals—four more than the late Nels Stewart and just six less than Andy Bathgate, now in the Western Hockey League.

The 31-year-old left winger has 23 goals this season, Detroit coach Bill Gadsby said last September he would settle for 35 goals from Mahovlich during the 76-game schedule.

Gordie Howe scored the other Detroit goal and also added an assist. Gerry Ehman picked up the Oakland goal.

The victory was the fourth in a row for the last-place Red Wings and moved them to within one point of fifth-place New York in the Eastern Division.

Hull held on to his scoring leadership by picking up the three points against Los Angeles. The left winger has 30 goals and 30 assists for 60 points and a one-point edge over Esposito.

Defenceman Matt Ravlich and Bill Urban scored the other Chicago goals while Bryan Campbell and Eddie Joyal replied for Los Angeles.

With the win the Black Hawks moved into third place in the Eastern Division, one point ahead of Toronto.

TAKE FIRST PLACE

Esposito's outstanding playmaking carried the Bruins into first place in the Eastern Division, one point ahead of Montreal. The Boston centre assisted on two goals each by Ken Hodge and Ron Murphy and one by Johnny McKenzie.

More Stunts In Schmokey

A brand new script has been prepared for this year's schmokey game.

In last year's classic between the RCMP and Kelowna newsmen there were 18 stunts; this year the total has been increased to 20, all new and according to game organizers, funnier than last year.

Game time is 8 p.m. Saturday in the Kelowna and District Memorial Arena, with all proceeds going to the Kelowna Teen Town's March of Dimes campaign.

Tickets are only 50 cents each and Teen Town members are hoping the 1969 game will match the success of the first game last Jan. 13, when $1,800 was raised for the "crippled" children's hospital in Vancouver.

Although last year's game was a sell-out, Teen Town members feel there are still many Central Okanagan people who will be seeing their first schmokey action this year. They emphasize the game is a comedy affair, with stunts featured and as little straight hockey as possible.

Last year the RCMP won 13-12, but this year the newsmen are determined to get revenge.

Buckaroos Fight Rockets To Tie

Gene Carr scored all three goals Saturday as the Kelowna Buckaroos battled the Kamloops Rockets to a 3-3 B.C. Junior Hockey League tie in Kamloops.

Chuck Carigan set up all three goals.

The tie was the second for Kelowna in two nights. Friday the Buckaroos fought back from a two-goal deficit to tie the Vernon Essos 4-4 at the Memorial Arena.

Bill Tarnow, Gordon Redding and Ed Bannantyne found the range for the Rockets.

Carr scored in every period and twice put the Buckaroos in the lead. But Kamloops kept battling back in a determined effort to pick up their first points since the New Year.

Bannantyne made it possible by slapping in a goal at 16:58 of the final frame.

Tarnow gave Kamloops its only lead of the game at 12:30 of the first period when he scored on a pass from Bannantyne. Carr tied the score at 1:11 when he found the range at 15:46 of the opening frame.

Carr put Kelowna into the lead at 18:59 of the second period when he scored his second goal and the only one scored by either team in the slow-moving period.

Redding tied the score for Kamloops early in the third period before Carr and Bannantyne exchanged markers.

Kelowna held a wide edge in play, out-shooting their hosts 43-26. Kelowna took six of the nine penalties.

The Pentleton Broncos kicked up their heels in BCJHL action on the weekend, moving into first place over Victoria Cougars Saturday and stretching their lead to three points in a Sunday game.

The Broncos handed Cougars their first loss in eight games before 1,749 fans in Victoria Saturday by a score of 6-4.

Sunday, Pentleton took on last-place New Westminster before 250 fans and dumped the Royals 4-3.

ROYALS RALLIED

In the Sunday game, three unanswered second-period goals gave the Royals their victory despite a determined third-period New Westminster rally.

Ken Love picked up one of his two goals when he opened the scoring for the Royals in the first period.

Then Broncos took over on goals by Ed Hayes, Reg Cherenko, Kerry Moss and Ken Connor.

Love banged in his second goal at 10:49 of the third and Al Knight closed the gap to one goal at 18:14 but Broncos held on for the win.

The Victoria game evened up Cougar and Bronco win-loss records at three wins and one tie in seven games.

GENE CARR ... explosive game

Ken Connor had two goals for the winners with singles by Vic Mercedi, Pat Laughton, Kerry Moss and Brian Barrett.

Cougar scorers were Gerry Bond, Grant Evans, John Van Horlick and Lon Miles.

Namath Leads New York To Greatest Victory Ever

MIAMI (AP) — Joe Namath has become the greatest prophet in the sports world since Cassius Clay called the rounds in which his foes would fall.

Namath, quarterback of New York Jets, "guaranteed" that the American League team would win the world football title, and he backed it up all the way Sunday when he led New York to a 16-7 upset of Baltimore Colts of the National League.

In the two previous Super Bowls, Green Bay Packers had clobbered the AFL entries, Kansas City and Oakland, and Baltimore was an 18-point favorite to keep the NFL mystique alive.

The game plan of the Colts was obvious. Their defence would take away the New York running game, opening the way for the big rush that would stop Namath. Then Earl Morrall's passes and the slashing runs of Tom Matte and Jerry Hill would carry Baltimore to victory.

But Namath tore the plan apart. Right from the beginning, he established the Jet rushing attack by running Matt Snell down the throats of the Colts. And when Baltimore still tried the blitz, he beat it repeatedly as he bombed the Colts with 17 completions in 28 tries for 206 yards.

Against a magnificent New York defence, Morrall and later Johnny Unitas found all avenues to victory closed to them.

Morrall, who this season replaced the injured Unitas and won distinction as the NFL's Most Valuable Player when he guided the Colts to a 13-1 season, had been given added incentive by Namath's pre-game crowing that Morrall was no better than at least five passers in the AFL.

But Morrall was unable to rise to the challenge. The scrambling Jets' defenders allowed him only six completions in 17 throws for a measly 71 yards and came up with crucial interceptions.

"I don't think we did anything right," Baltimore coach Don Shula said. "On defence we didn't play like we should, and our offence didn't come up with the big plays like it has all season."

Coach Weeb Ewbank, who won two NFL titles with the Colts and now has guided the Jets to the heights, said:

"The Colts were great but we were greater. It was fabulous. Joe called another of his great games. This is the start of a new era in pro football."

HELD 16-0 LEAD

Snell raced four yards for a Jet touchdown, Jim Turner kicked field goals of 32, 30 and nine yards, and New York held a commanding lead of 16-0 before the veteran Unitas came in for the final quarter.

Big heroes of the New York defence were Rody Beverly, whose two end zone interceptions prevented what looked like a sure Baltimore touchdown, Johnny Sample, who stole another at the Jet two, and Jim Hudson, who swiped one at the New York 12.

George Sauer, who led the Jet receivers with eight catches for 133 yards, got off on the wrong foot. After David Lee had punted dead to the New York three in the first period, Namath hit Sauer with a short pass, but he fumbled and Ron Porter recovered for Baltimore at the Jets' 12.

The sellout crowd of 75,377 thought this would be the start of a Colt landslide as Matte, rushing star of the Colts, rammed to the seven on the first play. But when Morrall aimed for Tom Mitchell in the end zone, the ball bounced off his left shoulder pad and was deflected to Beverly.

Then Namath took the Jets 80 yards in 12 plays, with Snell hitting for gains of seven and 13 yards, taking a 12-yard pass from Namath, and running wide with a simple handoff for the touchdown.

Canadian Runner Defeated By Meef's Top Competitor

BOSTON (CP) — George Young was picked as the top athlete of the first big indoor track and field meet of the winter in the United States when he won the two-mile event here Saturday night in a thrilling duel with Bob Finlay of Toronto.

Sports writers voted overwhelmingly for Young, a 31-year-old Arizona schoolteacher who captured the race at the Knights of Columbus meet in the Boston Garden in eight minutes, 32.6 seconds, a meet record.

Finlay, 25-year-old student at the University of Waterloo, was second in 8:33.4.

The two experienced distance runners waged a classic battle, with Finlay moving in front after two laps and staying in the lead until the final lap. Young dogged his heels all the way until the bell sounded. Then the American made his move and passed the Canadian on the back straightaway.

Young won the third-place bronze medal in the 1968 Olympics in the 3,000-metre steeplechase and Finlay was 11th in the 5,000 metres.

Finlay clipped off quarter-mile splits of 65.5 seconds, 63, 63.9, 64, 63.8 and 65—times that would have discouraged most competitors.

But with 880 yards left, Young still was on his heels. Finlay tapered his seventh, and next-to-last, 440 yards to 65.8. When the bell clang for the showdown lap, the crowd of more than 8,000 moved to its feet.

BIG KICK SUCCEEDS

In the back straightaway, Young left the curve for the first time, moved outside and challenged with his big kick to win his 10th straight indoor race over a two-season span.

Young's time clipped nearly six seconds off the Boston indoor mark and was just 1.9 seconds off the world indoor mark set by Jim Beatty in Los Angeles in 1963.

Willie Davenport of South University, Olympic gold medalist in the 110-metre hurdles, equaled the indoor world record of 5.4 seconds in the 45-yard hurdles.

Joan Fisher of Ottawa was second in the women's 440-yard race, won by Esther Stroy of the United States. The Canadian girl clocked 58.3 seconds, just two-tenths of a second behind the winner. Penny Werthner of Ottawa was third in 1:00.3.

In the Cushing 1,000-yard race, won by Herb Germann of the New York Athletic Club in

Sifford Wins L.A. Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charlie Sifford won the $100,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament Sunday in a one-hole sudden-death playoff with Harold Henning of South Africa.

Sifford, 45, the first Negro to make it in professional golf, took home $20,000.

His rounds for the 72 holes were 63-71-71-71—276 for the 36-71 R. A. N. C. Park Golf course. Henning, a $11,400 winner, had rounds of 74-68-66-68—276.

Defending champion Billy Casper made a run with a 67. So did Australia's Bruce Devlin. They tied for third at 277 and won $5,900 each.

Arnold Palmer finished with a 73 for 284. It was worth $1,065.

Sifford has been playing for more than two decades. He was a caddy as a 10-year-old in Charlotte, N.C. His only other PGA tournament victory was in the Greater Hartford Open last summer.

Ottawa Talks To The People
But Words Don't Get Through

HALIFAX (CP) — The federal government talks to the people of Canada through its information services, but usually the message doesn't get through.

That was one of the recurring themes at a meeting arranged between the task force on federal government information services and 70 Maritime businessmen, provincial and federal information officers, representatives of newspapers, radio and television, teachers, and public relations officers.

D'Iberville, Fortier, chairman of the task force, and his two fellow researchers, Bernard Ostry and Tom Ford, heard some acid criticism of the way government public information officers do their jobs.

Mr. Fortier himself referred to a lack of candor among some officers when they were discussing departmental problems.

And one federal information officer stationed in the Maritimes said: "The attitude of the average public information officer is that it is safer to say nothing, rather than say anything at all—even anything that's good. Most public information officers seem to think they're in the secret service, not the public service."

NO KNOWN SOURCE

The most common comment at the meeting was one put this way by Carrie Best, a broadcaster from New Glasgow, N.S.: "The ordinary person needs some sort of information pipeline that he can use to find out how federal programs can help him. He simply does not know whom to go to."

The force is scheduled to make its report to Prime Minister Trudeau in March.

It has been asked to recommend, among other things, how the quality of communication between the government and the people can be improved.

One federal information program drew praise from the participants. They said the information provided about filing income tax was "first rate, particularly the individual service provided by regional income tax officers."

Good Man Gone Bad
Given 15 Years Jail

TORONTO (CP) — "He was a good man gone wrong," Mary Jane Waite said last week after her husband, George, 33, had been sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Earlier, she had been led crying from the courtroom where Waite, nicknamed Balacava Bill by Toronto police, had pleaded guilty and was sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for seven armed robberies totaling $42,248.

Waite, who spent four years at Queen's University in Kingston, was arrested in a routine traffic check late last year after a two-year hold-up spree in Toronto.

During the trial police testified they found in his car a sawed-off shotgun and a blue wool balacava Waite had used in the hold-ups.

Confronted with this evidence, as well as high power binoculars, ignition jumping wires to start a car without a key and a radio that monitored police calls, he had readily confessed.

Police said Waite told them: "I'm the celebrated and long sought-after Balacava Bill."

Waite was so proficient at the hold-ups that police thought for a while the Balacava Bill might have been a policeman.

All his hold-ups, at banks shortly before the 3 p.m. closing time, were brisk and professional and he was always polite. Nobody ever got hurt.

Police said Balacava Bill, after studying a bank for several days, would drive up in a stolen car, walk in with the sawed-off shotgun and announce that it was a hold-up.

Bank employees then were lined up against a wall and the tellers' cash drawers emptied into a paper bag.

Police said he kept tape recordings and notes of his schemes and even had the license numbers of police cars in a number of areas.

PROVES POINT

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Agents of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit say that during registration of firearms under a new federal law, one man dumped a sackful of hand grenades on their desk and began dismantling them before they could stop him. The man said he wanted to prove they were harmless and should not be registered.

wins East's queen with the king. Declarer's course of play seems exceptionally clear. To make contract he must bring home either the spade suit or the diamond suit.

For five spade tricks to matter requires a double finesse based on the hope that West has the K-J, while to make five diamond tricks merely requires East to have the king.

Declarer therefore follows the percentage play of leading a low spade to the ace, intending to try the diamond finesse next. But East, who can see that his king of diamonds is about to go the way of all flesh, makes the extremely clever play of dropping his king of spades on the ace.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
Planetary influences will be extremely generous toward creative and intellectual pursuits on Tuesday, also favor travel, outdoor interests and personal relationships. Make the most of a good day!

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that if, since mid-November, when you entered a most generous planetary cycle, you have taken advantage of all opportunities to advance your material status, have operated conservatively and made no commitments which would strain your budget, these interests should be in a fairly stable condition now. So don't make changes in plans or procedures which are basically sound.

As to the next 12 months: Where finances are concerned, look for a fine cycle for advancing your status between now and April 15th, and to further boosts during the last two weeks in July; in the weeks between September 15th and October 15th and for four weeks beginning on November 15th. Consolidate assets then, and be prepared to expand your interests along monetary lines on the 1st of next January, when you will enter another excellent 2-month period. Do avoid extravagance in August and don't speculate in early September or early November, however, or you could offset gains.

In job and/or business matters, you should have a generally good year, with fine chances for advancement indicated during the first two weeks of February and the first two weeks of July (but only in enterprises previously launched). After the 15th, it will be safe to venture a bit and, if there are no great risks involved in new undertakings in which you may engage, you should attain fine results progressively. In September, mid-November and/or late December.

Personal relationships will be governed by generous influences for most of the year ahead, but do try to maintain harmony in close circles—especially in late June, early September, mid-October and mid-December—periods when the typical Capricorn moodiness could get out of hand. Most auspicious periods for romance: May, August and next December; for travel: Mid-June, the last two weeks in August, early September and the weeks between December 15th and January 15th.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a warm and outgoing personality and a fine mind, but may be overly sensitive.
